The Costa Rican Counterfeiter For months the Costa Rican counte feiters have been issuing bogus notes o the government of the island until the amount, it is said, has reached $1,000,000 Inspectors of the secret service bureau were chiefly instrumental in bringing the malefactors to justice. The efficience of the secret service is undoubted, but it is by no means a secret, but a patent fact, that the service that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does the weak, nervon and dyspeptic is of genuine value. There have been from time to time counterfeit of it, but the miniature note of hand or the label, and the vignette of St. Georg and the Dragon, are not successfull imitable. The tonic absolutely prevent and remedies malaria, rheumatism, liver complaint and dyspepsia.

GENERAL HENDERSON'S LEG

Has Been Seven Times Under the Knife

Since the Original Amputation. General Henderson of Iowa has come back to Washington for the session of congress rejuvenated. Having had his leg amputated again, he seems quite refreshed. His leg has been under the knife seven times since the original amoutation during the war. The first amputation was a little above the foot. The last was above the knee.

General Henderson is now chairman of the house judiciary committee. Everybody in congress calls him Dave Henderson. Everybody likes him because he is so amiable and jolly. Most members fear him as an antagonist in debate because he is such an unconscionable fighter. In 20 years there have been but three or four men in congress with lung power to equal him, and there is an energy and eloquence about his address which is apt to drive an antagonist off his bearings. Most men get more or less ill natured when they suffer greatly, but with him it is almost the reverse. If possible, he is better natured under pain.

It is a most remarkable thing the way he and that piece of a leg of his have contended for mastery. In the first place, the bones of his ankle were shivered by a shot. He was young and thought he could stand it if the foot could, and he held out against amputation for several months. During the

GENERAL D. B. HENDERSON. seven times his leg has been under the knife since then he has taken gas but

He is a most energetic worker, one of the most active men in congress. During the last session of the Fifty fourth congress and the extra session of this congress he was a great sufferer, as he has been at intervals before, as a premonition of another amputation. It pulled something off his flesh, but never contracted or modified the amiability of the smile with which he met all classes of people. When he saw that the leg was getting the best of him, he decided to have another piece taken off. This was the most serious operation he had been compelled to endure, as it had to come off above the knee. He neglected his correspondence for just nine days on account of the operation. Four days before the operation was performed the doctor ordered him to Atlantic City to take a complete rest, so that he could determine whether the amoutation would be necessary. During that time he did no work. Again when the operation was performed he had to give his stenographer a holiday, but on the fourth day he was dictating letters. The second ha was play ing whist. - Washington Star.

LITTLE BABY HERCULES.

Feats of Strength of a Three-year-old In Chicago.

Matt Deegan, Jr., is undoubtedly the strongest 3-year-old in Chicago. He is a handsome child and is as tall and as well developed as most children of twice his age, with a full chest and strong, firm legs and arms. At 18 months this little Hercules propelled a bicycle up and down the sidewalks of Rush street, scattering pedestrians as he rolled past. At 236 years his arms and back were strong enough for him to pull a buggy in which three men were seated.

Little Matt's greatest feat is as follows: A heavily built man of his acquaintance was visiting at the Deegan home. Suddenly the man felt something tugging at his legs, and the next thing he knew little Matt had thrown him off his feet. Since that time Matt's father has rather frowned upon his feats of strength.-Exchange.

Proposition For Mexico.

The best solution of the Cuban question is to place the island under the jurisdiction of Mexico, the leading Spanish-American republic. The Cubans say that they prefer annexation to the United States, but surely when they reflect on the matter they must come to see that Cuba, entering the Mexican Union as an integral part of the federation, will gain in dignity over American annexation. It is time for men of Latin American race to join together in a common effort to make themselves a political force in the world, and Cuba-Mexicana is a sensible way to begin the building up of a great Spanish-American republic which shall make of the gulf of Mexico and the great sea below Cuba a new world Mediterranean. - Mexican Herald.

Born Without Arms.

The state of Indiana is noted for freak babies. Probably the most interesting of the lot is a bright little boy whose parcuts live in Salamonia, Jay county. The child was born without the slightest semblance of arms. He is now 4 years of age and has learned to use his feet with remarkable skill. There is nothing which generally falls to the duties of the bands which the child is not able to do with his toes. He can skin and eat bananas, take up pins and is learning to write, or rather draw, with a pencil. He is hearty and ex-

IOWA'S BLIND GIRL

SOME OF THE RECENT ACQUIRE-MENTS OF LINNIE HAGUEWOOD.

Story of the Blind, Deaf and Dumb Child Who In Two Years Learned to Read, Write, Sew and Talk - History of a Remarkable Case.

Linnie Haguewood, who was placed under the tuition of Miss Dora Donald in the Iowa College For the Blind two years ago, at the age of 16, is doubtless the most remarkable girl of whom there is any record. Born on a farm near Ida Grove, Ia., she had no special training until two years ago. When she was 18 months old, she was stricken by a disease which came near ending her life. But she recovered, bereft of sight and hearing. She was deaf, dumb and blind. Linnie's parents were poor, and she had brothers to be looked after. There was no institution within the borders of Iowa that could receive her. Her parents knew not what to do save to keep her at home. For ten years her mind remained a blank, for they knew not how to teach her.

At the age of 14 the child happened to meet Mr. French of Dubuque, who was interested in all the blind and deaf. She was two years at Vinton before she had a special teacher. She attended the kindergarten classes and grasped all she could from the work given the other children. At the kindergarten Miss Dora Donald was the teacher. The other members of the school could talk and hear. Miss Donald was drawn toward Linnie, sympathizing with her efforts to become acquainted with the outside

To Bernard Murphy and to Miss Dora Donald is due the credit of the wonder ful progress made by Linnie Haguewood. Miss Donald three years ago wrote and published in the Vinton Eagle a sketch of Linnie's struggle to learn. Bernard Murphy, editor of The Eagle, seconded Miss Donald's efforts to help Linnie, and he published appeal after appeal for aid to assist her. The response was quick and generous. Within 90 days he had $1,600, and the general assembly of the state in 1896 appropriated $500, making $2,100, a sum sufficient to have a teacher who would give her whole attention to Linnie for four years. Miss Donald was hired as her teacher.

"Then and not until then," writes Miss Donald, "did Linnie's school life She was in the last month of her fifteenth year, a being deaf, dumb and blind, with only a vocabulary of name words, a few simple sentences and such ideas as had come to her through her fingers.'

Linnie is deft with the needle, having cut and made several garments for herself, her mother and her brothers. At present she is busy crocheting and knitting little Christmas gifts for her friends, little baby jackets, balls, hoods, mittens and "fascinators." During the year she makes the articles and sells them as souvenirs to the many people who come to the college to meet this bright, interesting girl.

Linnie has learned the New York point and the raised print. She has also learned the American braille and the English braille-equivalent to learning four languages. She knows all her friends by the touch of their hands. She has signs for all of her acquaintances. She carries a gold watch, a present to her, and she never hesitates to tell you the time of day, winding it and setting it whenever she likes. She recites the Lord's Prayer by use of the signs common to the schools for the deaf. She is familiar with any combination of numbers under 1,000, can take you in imagination over all the world and point out all the objects of interest.

In the kindergartens she makes all sorts of fancy work. She runs the sewing machine with the greatest of ease and has learned to write on the typewriter which was presented to her by the children of the public schools of Sioux Falls. Her friends in the South Dakota school for the deaf at Sioux Falls presented her with the typewriter desk, on which she takes great pleasure in writing to her friends, sometimes in script and sometimes on her typewriter. She writes script with a pencil, placing the paper on a grooved board. She learned to write on her typewriter so rapidly that in three days after she received it she wrote on it a letter of thanks to those who presented it to her. In gymnastics she goes through the evolutions with scarcely a mistake, handling the dumbbells and clubs and keeping time with the music.

In addition to all her other acquirements in the last year Linnie can talk and is able to read simple words spoken by her teacher. This seems incredible, when it is remembered that she neither sees nor hears a word that is written or spoken. Linnie has made friends with the most distinguished people wherever she has been seen. The future alone can tell what may be developed in this remarkable case.—Chicago Record.

"I had been troubled for several years with spells of liver complaint," writes H. N. Dransfield, Esq., of Sweetsprings, Mouroe Co., W. Va., "and about two years ago my health gave way. I tried a doctor and got worse all the time. I had a weakness in my left side and limbs, palpitation of the heart, cramping pains in the stomach after eating; nerves weak and no energy. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and began to mend from the start. I soon felt like a new person. I am now enjoying good health."
